

60409684.091002

ABSTRACT

In the present invention, a system is disclosed which facilitates the distribution and protection of computer data among a number of storage nodes which may be located distantly from one another, in a manner to achieve efficient distribution of replicas of the computer data in the event of failure of disk drive units located at one or more of the storage nodes.

TRA1708798